Past approaches at Mapbox

- Validating changesets
- Relying only on algorithms
- Monitor new users
- Building blacklists

One approach does not address all cases of vandalism.

Approach

Step 1

Split the OSM mono layer into data layers

Step 2 Diff the changes per day. Step 3 Cluster daily changes into deltas.

A new unit of change

Approach

Step 4 Review the daily changes

Step 5

Apply the updates to the map and protect from harmful changes

Step 6

Share harmful changes and fix them

Machine review

- Profanity checking in 100 languages for labels
- Use NLP to determine how likely a label is a place name
- Shape classifiers for likelihood of a shape being a building
- Drastic changes to stable features

Human review

- Review changes in
  - geometry
  - $\circ$  labels
  - hierarchy
  - primary tags
- Classify harmful changes

QA of reviews

- Review team regularly gets sampled
- >99% accuracy for selected cases
- Expert mappers double check each review and single out the problematic features

Review statistics from Mapbox

- Our review team reviews all 80'000 changes on a daily basis
- We flag around 1000-2000 changes a day
- We fix >200 defects on a daily basis
- 50% of issues are fixed by OSM

Daily catch

Sharing vandalism detections

- osmcha.mapbox.com is the one stop shop for OSM validation
- All our harmful detections are made public
- Mapbox regularly fixes harmful data

- OSM is eventually consistent
- Mapbox provides you a validated view of OSM
- Let's protect the future of OSM before vandalism becomes a bigger problem
- We need better shared monitoring efforts
